SUPREME - COURT FAVORS UTILITY IN WATER CASE

Ohio Water Service Co.
Ordered to Collect from Washington C. H.

COMMON PLEAS REVERSED

Denman Tells Councilmen to Locate Hydrants for Extensions

COLUMBUS, July 17.—(UP)—
The Ohio Supreme court today
found in favor of the Ohio Water Service Co. in its suit against the city of Washington Court House for collection of water rents claimed due for water furnished for fire protection.

City council passed an ordinance fixing the rates, but claimed that because the city fiscal officer did not certify that the money was in the treasury and uncumbered,
that the company could not collect.

The Fayette county common pleas court found for the city and the court of appeals affirmed the finding, but the supreme court voted a reversal.

Extensions Assured

Councilmen were assured Wednesday night the Ohio Water Service Co., will make extensions in Half avenue, Seyfert park and the Montclair addition.

Previous to the council session, Harry Denman, local manager for the company, asked the city dads to locate fire hydrants at the two additions. They made the trip in automobiles before starting their meeting. Denman informed them the extensions would be started as soon as materials arrive.

Frank Baker, chairman of the service committee, reported the company had left his committee and city officials in doubt about the extensions at a meeting Monday. "We were assured tonight the extensions will be made," Mr.
Baker reported.

They will include two hydrants
on Half avenue, two in Montclair addition and one in Seyfert park.

Water is Petitioned

Residents of Fairview avenue
filed a petition with council agreeing to use city water if lines were extended on their street.

The petition was referred to the safety committee.

Those who signed the petition
were Mr. and Mrs. David Frazier, Daniel E. Myers, Mr. and Mrs.
William J. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wilkin, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cupp, M. L. Rudy, William Thomas, Attor Amor, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith, Harry Dornise, and Mr. and Mrs. Lottie Sissons.

STEERING APPARATUS FAILS; DRIVER UNHURT

the automobile of Leonard Eblin, 21, of Circleville Route 5, swerved the car into a ditch and against a field fence at the farm of Floyd Brobst, Stoutsville pike, Wednesday night. Eblin escaped injury and the car was not damaged.

Is Head G-Man on Way Out?

IS J. Edgar Hoover, (left) chief of the U. S. department of justice, on the spot? Reports persist in Washington that secret men are investigating the activities of the G-men in the kidnap cases they ended so successfully and that Hoover may be on the way out. The charges being sifted pertain to alleged shooting of unarmed men and "double-crossing" of police. Should Hoover be relieved of his job, Chief W. H. Moran of the secret service may be put in charge of the G-men.

U. S. AGENCIES IN HEATED FEUD

Cummings to Aid Hoover
Against Secret Service

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(UP)—
The unusual picture of governmental investigating agencies aligned against each other took shape today as a result of an inter-departmental feud.

On one side were J. Edgar Hoover's famed G-men, with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings who heartily supported his hard-hitting bureau of investigation chief. On the other were the FBI and the post office department inspection service.

First official acknowledgment
of the feud came from Cummings, who, replying to questions at a press conference concerning reported secret service investigations of FBI activities, said there
"have been some such ill-advised activities."

Cummings indicated he will fight any effort to combine the FBI with other agencies under a new director.

"If they're shooting at Hoover,
they've picked the wrong man,"
he said. "They ought to start shooting at me. Mr. Hoover has my fullest confidence and support."

CITY DADS TELL CASKEY TO SEEK NEW AUTO BIDS

Circleville's police department will soon have a new automobile.
Councilmen adopted a resolution
Wednesday night authorizing Safety Director C. O. Caskey to advertise for bids and make the purchase.

Members of the police department requested a six cylinder auto with heavy duty, 6-ply tires, special driving light, siren and radio and a heavy duty generator.
They requested the car be purchased in Circleville.

The present police car has been in bad condition for many months,
and numerous requests were made by the department for a new cruiser. Repair bills on the automobile have been high, and it is not equipped with a radio.

270 MEN WORKING ON W. P. A. JOBS

Approximately 270 men are employed on WPA projects in Circleville and Pickaway county.

One hundred were recently laid off under orders from the district headquarters and many have accepted private employment during the summer.
Last winter 500 were employed on projects.

NEW HOT BLAST ENROUTE EAST

Forecasters Says Dakotas
Sending Torrid Weather

CHICAGO, July 16.—(UP)—The burning prairies of the Dakotas generated new blasts of heat today that threatened to increase the death toll to upwards of 4,000 and spread new destruction over America's drought basin.

Scattered showers brought temporary relief to parts of Illinois, Indiana, southern Michigan, and Kentucky but forecasters saw a continuation of hot weather in the Ohio valley, the upper and mid-
Missouri valley and the central Mississippi valley, the lower Missouri valley and the central plain states.

"It's actually a regeneration of heat over the Dakotas that is continuing the drought," J. R. Lloyd reported.

"As the hot air moves east the west portion of the Dakotas will be cooler tonight and the Dakotas, northwestern Minnesota, and Nebraska will enjoy cooler weather tomorrow."

"We can't predict now whether this new mass of cool air will reach other sections of the middlewest."

The "best" rains fell during the night in southern Illinois and Kentucky. Owensboro, Ky., received 2.02 inches, Effingham, Ill., had 1.35 inches, Williamstown
and Lexington, Ky., .84 Richmond, Mo., and Bowling Green, 60.

Showers benefited crops in central Illinois after temperatures again soared to above 100 degrees yesterday. The mercury reached 80 degrees early today at Springfield.

Heavy wind and hail accompanied thundershowers in central Indiana. That state counted a death toll of 243 after nine consecutive days of 100-degree temperatures.

JANITOR OF MEMORIAL HALL WINS VACATION

cildman Ben Gordon, the city

icitor, to prepare an ordinance for the next meeting to give him a 15-day vacation annually
during June, July or August.

His vacation will be the same as those granted other city employees.

Jack Rackham's Body Located Three Hours After Fatal Accident

Brother, Afraid of Punishment, Refuses to Tell Relatives of Tragedy; "Watch Me Float," Boy Says, Going to Death

"Watch me float," Jack William Rackham, 7, of 207 1/2 W. Main street, told his brother, Charles, 8, Wednesday afternoon as he stepped from a log into the Scioto river near the W. Main street bridge. Three hours later his body was recovered by swimmers. Efforts to revive him were useless. The body was found at 5:15 p. m.

City and county officers did not learn of the drowning until about two hours after it occurred. Charles refused to tell relatives about the fatality.

Warned of River

Mrs. Jean Allen, Maplewood avenue, an aunt of the boys, said they had visited at her home Wednesday morning and she started them on their way home about noon. She said she warned them against playing along the river.

When Charles returned to his home alone, his mother, Mrs. Alvin Davis, questioned him about his brother. For fear of punishment he refused to tell her they had been along the river and his brother had stepped off the log.

Mrs. Allen and the mother searched for the missing boy, then appealed to the police department.
Chief William McCrady questioned Charles and he said his brother "was on a log in the river."

Mrs. Allen said the first clue they obtained that the boys had been along the river was from Paul Seymour, 12, of 721 Scioto street.
He said he had seen the boys playing along the Scioto north of where the accident occurred.

Found by Delong

Chief McCrady notified the sheriff's department and organized a searching party. Martin Delong, E.
Ohio street, found the body in about six feet of water near the log from which Jack fell. Mr. Delong touched the body with his foot. George Jenkins, 152 E. High street, brought the body to the surface.

Before the arrival of Coroner C.
E. Bowers, officers and citizens tried artificial respiration in an effort to revive the child. When Dr.
Bowers arrived he informed them it was useless. His verdict was death by drowning.

The boys are the sons of Mrs.
Alvin Davis by a former marriage.
Their father, George Rackham, lives in Columbus. Their step-father is a plasterer.

Jack was a pupil at High street school and would have been in the second grade at the next term. His body was removed to the Mader
and Ebert funeral home.

Jack William Rackham was born in Columbus May 27, 1929, a son of George W. and Sarah Alice Ogan Rackham.

He is survived by his mother,
his father and a stepfather, Alvin Davis, a brother Charles and a sister Ina Marylin, and his grandparents.

The funeral will be Friday at 1:30 p. m. in the Mader & Ebert chapel with Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Burial will be in Mt.
Carmel cemetery, Chillicothe. Pall bearers will be Harold Reiser, Roy Starkey, Edward Myers, Richard Quincel, and Paul Seymour, his playmates.

THRONG KNOCKS REVOLVER FROM SUSPECT'S HAND

Missile Thrown at Horse Ridden by Edward of England
During Parade

RULER REMAINS CALM

Scotland Yard Hurries Lons
Would-be Assassin to Jail
for Grilling

LONDON, July 16.—(UP)—
An apparent assassin, carrying a revolver and a large missile the shape of a brick,
attacked King Edward VIII
today as the king rode on his horse at the head of a guards' parade near Buckingham palace.

The assailant threw the brick-shaped object at the king and struck his charger on the flank. The horse reared but the king quickly had it under control.

A bystander leaped on the man and knocked the revolver, a large one, to the ground.
Other bystanders joined in the scuffle but foot and mounted police quickly closed in and the man was subdued.

Edward Composed

He was taken to Scotland Yard
for questioning.
Thousands of his subjects lined Constitution hill as the king, in the scarlet uniform of the Grenadier guards, passed along it on his way to the palace after presenting new colors to six regiments of guards in Hyde park.

The king maintained complete composure. He continued on to the palace, where he received the salute of the guardsmen in the courtyards and saluted the Queen and other members of the Royal family on the balcony.

Crowds were thronged outside the gates, cheering wildly. The Queen was informed of the attack
after the king entered and, greatly upset, hurried to congratulate him on his escape.

Some spectators had the impression that the assailant was considerably beaten by the crowd. A United Press correspondent saw him arrive at Scotland Yard, surrounded by a horde of detectives.
His coat was missing and his hair
disheveled.

An eyewitness, Geoffrey Slay-maker, said when the king's horse was struck it pranced a few steps
but did not try to bolt.

"There was a look of amazement on the king's face," Slay-maker said. "Then he ignored the incident and went on riding as though nothing had happened."

A mounted policeman jumped from his horse and knocked the revolver across the roadway to the opposite sidewalk, where a policeman snatched it up.

The Evening Standard claimed that the assailant pulled the trigger of the pistol, an automatic, but that it failed to explode. The paper quoted an Irish guardsman who was watching the parade as saying:

"My attention was attracted to the king, who was staring very hard to the left. The king's encouragement was marvellous. Although he was looking at the man with the pistol, not knowing when a bullet was going to be fired, he did not flinch. He neither pulled up nor urged the horse on."

Two Others Arrested

In addition to the assailant, who was said to be an Englishman, two other men were understood to have been arrested.

Scotland Yard in an official statement said a revolver with four of its five chambers loaded fell between the king and the guard-men who followed him in the parade.

No shots were fired, the state-

IMPROVEMENTS IN CITY URGED BY COUNCILMEN

Two Railroads to be Asked for Watchmen 24 Hours
Each Day

Numerous improvements were suggested by councilmen Wednesday evening and referred to committees and city officials for reports at the next meeting.

The Pennsylvania railroad will be asked to furnish a watchman at all hours at the Corwin street crossing. Wig-wags will be asked for the N. & W. crossing on S. Scioto street.

Councilman Frank Marion suggested some arrangements be made to eliminate storm water on Watt street in front of the Noecker and Pickens homes. He reported a low place in the street at that point.

Danger to Pedestrians

Immediate repair of the storm sewer in front of Cook's confectionery was requested by Councilman Harry Steinhauser. Since the street paving was completed the sewer has been covered with a stone. Mr. Steinhauser explained and is dangerous to pedestrians.

Councilman Ben Gordon reported the commissioners agreed to pay half of the expense for laying new sidewalks at the Memorial hall. His report was referred to the service committee to work out arrangements to have the walks improved.

Solicitor Carl Leist was instructed to prepare an ordinance for the next meeting to ask for bids on new gutters for the Memorial hall. Councilmen awarded a contract some time ago for the improvement but the contractor refused to do the work.

Councilman Marion reported the yard at the rear of the city cottage had been graded and a retaining wall installed. Council suggested the engineering department put an iron pin at the line of the city property. Several councilmen said they believed the wall was not on the exact property line.

Light Pole Removed

The light pole at the rear of the Masonic temple has been removed. The pole was a nuisance to large trucks using the alley to haul merchandise to W. Main street stores.

DIET AND HEALTH

Correcting Constipation in a Diet for Reducing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A LETTER from one of the New York readers of this column brings up an important point:

"Since starting your three weeks' diet I find myself badly constipated. How can I overcome this, as I want to keep up the diet, since I have already lost a few undesirable pounds?"

There are two precautions that everyone on a reducing diet should take into account—one is to make special provision for the protective foods—fresh fruits, milk, eggs, green vegetables—and the other is to provide enough roughage. The bulk of a reducing diet is necessarily smaller, and the sudden change may have a constipating influence.

In the three weeks' reducing diet we tried to take care of these things. On the first day there is, for instance, half a grapefruit for breakfast, a slice of pineapple for lunch, and a head of lettuce for dinner—all bulky foods with plenty of roughage.

Another preventive of constipation is the mineral oil as a substitute for olive oil in the salad dressing.

Individuals vary about this, and some bowels are more stubborn than others. If necessary, there is nothing easier than to add roughage to reducing diet.

The foods which have a high cellulose content are automatically the ones without much food value and hence ideal for a reducing diet. The bulk also helps to satisfy the appetite. Among such are: raw turnips, cucumbers, onions, oranges, grapefruit, prunes, pineapple and apricots. Some of these—such as sauerkraut and prunes—have slightly laxative properties in their juices.

Some fruits notable for "keeping the doctor away" properties—have somewhat higher food values, and cannot be used in unlimited quantities without counting the calories.

Besides this dietetic method of help, it is always permissible to use a teaspoon to a tablespoon of mineral oil at night. This, in my opinion, is the best remedy for chronic constipation. It adds bulk to the stool, and when given in such amounts (a tablespoon is enough for anyone) that there is an excess of free oil in the bowel, it acts as a vigorous peristaltic stimulant. This is denied by some text books of medicine, but it is true none the less.

In fact, its stimulating properties are almost as strong as a laxative salt.

Besides this, it is non-habit-forming. Its only disadvantage is a tendency to leakage which, however, can be controlled.

Two Arrested in Bannister Extortion

NEW YORK, July 16—(UP)—Two men were held today on charges of extorting $2,000 from Harry Bannister, former husband of Ann Harding, motion picture actress, to suppress forged "affidavits" against him when he and Miss Harding were litigating over custody of their daughter, now 7.

The accused men, arrested last night are Jerome A. Jacobs, 48, a lawyer and Ray Derringer, 39, a private detective. Jacobs had been free under bond awaiting trial on charges of attempting to extort $20,000 from Alfred E. Smith, Jr., son of the former Democratic presidential candidate and of blackmailing $600 from Paul J. Bonwit, former head of Bonwit-Teller, store of women's wear.

It was reported that information against the two came partly from "Lord" Ernest Desmond De Hagen, who was extradited from California recently in connection with extortion plots.

Harold Hastings, acting district attorney, said Derringer admitted the attempt to blackmail Bannister. Jacobs denied knowledge of the plot.

Hastings said the faked affidavits that Bannister bought from the extortionists were represented to him as having been prepared by a private detective employed by Miss Harding to prevent him from gaining custody of his daughter. The Bannisters were divorced in Reno in 1932 but never have ceased to fight over their daughter.

Only a few weeks ago Miss Harding flew from Hollywood across Canada to Quebec to board a ship for England.

difficulties with her husband, so, Bannister flew from New York to Quebec with a baby and arrived there less than an hour after his former wife and her daughter had ferried out to a departing liner.

THE WONDER WORKER

THERE is probably somebody in this great country who does not know that "advertising pays," but if there is he, or she, is woefully ignorant of American business and commercial achievement. Those two words, "advertising pays," form one of the fundamental rules of business and joined with "service" spell success to the business man who observes them.

What has been accomplished in the past through advertising is being duplicated or excelled today by national manufacturers and local merchants. A new fabric is made famous and given a national demand almost overnight by widespread advertising. A new automobile model builds up a national demand for itself before it is placed on display with the aid of extensive advertising. In every community there are old merchants who have retained a thriving trade through many years by regular and heavy advertising or who are building up prosperous business in new stores by the old rule "advertising pays." Advertising has become just as essential to business success as service and storeroom.

RECREATION IN DECADE

LEISURE time throughout the country is so highly regarded that recreation has doubled in the last ten years. The National Recreation Association in a review covering more than 2,200 communities has uncovered figures to prove that enforced idleness due to economic conditions has not been fully responsible for it all, as employed men and women in charge of recreation facilities increased in number during the decade from 17,177 to 43,976, with particular emphasis on swimming and picknicking.

Bathing beaches, public golf courses, ice skating areas, children's playgrounds, wading pools, lawn tennis and basket ball courts and horseshoe pitching, to say nothing of plain hiking, prove there is something more to life than the humdrum. There is an eagerness for recreation that does not mean sitting on park benches or listening to orators with something they must have to get off their minds. The very fact that Americans are recreating themselves in the literal sense proves that they still have plenty of hope. The National Recreation Association's report makes good reading.

You never realize how little money you need to spend till you quit carrying any.

Be patient with knockers. Everything seems rotten to the man who isn't doing so well.

Six little words cause most of the world's malice. They are these: "We are better than you are."

Race hatred isn't a mere matter of race. We'd hate our own kind if they had the same bad manner.

HOWES OUT-FARLEYS FARLEY

WASHINGTON — William Washington Howes, the new Acting Postmaster General, has a glad-hand mounted on ball bearings, and he has back slapped his way right into the Cabinet.

There is no place where he does not feel at home, or where he does not make you feel at home. But he is at his best in an old-fashioned political gathering. There, no one can out-glad-hand him, not even James Aloysius Farley, whose ornate walnut-paneled office he will soon occupy.

In appearance Howes is as plain as an old shoe. He wears horn-rim glasses, soft collars, shirt-sleeves, and a black, thick pompadour. Shorter than Jim Farley, Bill weighs about 250 pounds, uses ordinary instead of green ink, and instead of chewing gum smokes cigarettes chain fashion.

He excels Farley in one respect—having three double chins against Big Jim's two. In this, he follows the precedent set by the first Postmaster General, Benjamin Franklin.

POLITICS EARLY

Bill began training for his present career while a student at the University of Minnesota, where he was a great rallier of class spirit. If the boys and girls on the campus were a little lukewarm about getting out to root for good old Minnesota, Bill Howes was right there with the pep tonic.

He was the chief urger-on in a very urgent student body.

Bill was not a fraternity man. There was no such snobbishness in his ego. But with the help of his father, a moderately successful insurance man, he did acquire a part interest in a cigar store during his sophomore year. It became the focal point for athletes and the betting center for all games.

At law school, Howes joined the legal fraternity of Delta Theta Phi, and during his second year attended the national fraternity convention, where he shared a room with the Dean of the law school. Howes used the occasion to get the Dean's advice on where a budding young lawyer should practise, and was told that the state of South Dakota needed lawyers almost as badly as it always needs water.

SOUTH DAKOTAN LAW

So Bill Howes took his final year of law at the University of South Dakota, during which he and his friend the Dean conducted a survey of the state to ascertain the exact spot where lawyers were scarcest.

They found that in the little town of Wolsey, population 458, not one lawyer was to be found at all.

So Bill Howes went there with the proverbial $40 in his pocket, registered at the best hotel (if there was more than one), rented an office for $12 a month (on which he paid $5 down) and hired a sign painter to paint a shingle with the biggest gilt letters possible.

A few minutes later, a cow-puncher came in with a title to be verified. Howes charged him $5 and thus paid for his shingle.

Howes has never made a fortune at law, but he has made a comfortable income, though he did not stay in Wolsey to make it. His home in recent years has been in Huron, a town of 11,000, and among the largest in the state.

CHAPTER 48
WIN HAD said he needed her. Of all the things he might have said, all of the ways back to her heart he might have followed, of all the passionate words in the English language, he had to choose the only ones that could have broken through Joan's shield.

Reason told her that Win never had need of anyone who could not help him. He had Beatrice, a wealthy wife, daughter of a famous surgeon, a helpmate to guide his way up the ladder of success, a social asset. What need could he have of her?

Keeping from Julian all the things that seethed within her was enough to occupy her mind that day. Otherwise she might have thought that it was odd for Sheila to send for Win when she had her own doctor to whom she professed complete professional devotion.

Sheila telephoned her while she was taking dictation from Julian. "Hello," said Joan. "Please, thank you... so you've heard?... Splendid... no, I'm afraid I can't, Mr. Sloan has enough work to keep me busy until dinner time... I'll tell him you telephoned."

Thus did she dispose of Sheila's request. So Sheila had heard that Pierre would recover. Sheila hadn't said anything to Joan about asking Win to drop in at her apartment that afternoon and she had not been very anxious for Joan to do so.

On the contrary, Joan had the impression that Sheila had telephoned to make sure that Joan would not do so.

Unconsciously she shrugged her shoulders. What difference did it make to her who telephoned Win and asked him to call for whatever reason? Was she going to be a complete little fool at this late day and think that every woman in the world found Win as attractive as she did? Or as unattractive? She was conscious of the thought that a little thing like a wife wouldn't stand in the way of any amatory advances that the predatory Sheila would care to make to an attractive young physician.

Perhaps Pierre's rash act had taught her a lesson and she was really ill.

The next afternoon, while Julian napped, Joan dropped by Sheila's apartment. She found Sheila reclining on her chaise longue, a picture in coral chiffon.

"Well, Joan, I didn't expect you at this hour."

"Resting," Joan inquired.

"Ill," Sheila answered. "I'm just about able to get through my performance. Pierre's accident has shaken me beyond all belief. Last night I thought I couldn't get through my performance."

Already Sheila had dramatized Pierre's act into an "accident."

"Dr. Winslow told me you had telephoned him."

"I had to, darling. I was afraid another doctor might ask me why I was in such a state of collapse. I couldn't bear to try to think of any reason. It wasn't necessary to explain to Dr. Winslow."

"Did you find him understanding?" Joan asked and hoped that the note of sarcasm was not too pronounced in her voice.

"Charming. Where do you meet all your charming men?" There was no throwing Sheila with any sarcasm, delicate or otherwise.

"He's not one of my men. He's a boy from home. He's married. Sheila, and practically a blushing bridegroom."

Sheila favored her with a quick glance that said very plainly she would never have guessed it. She didn't read the misery in Joan's face.

"Where do you find all your charming men?"

"Well, married or not, he still is charming. He said he would come by here this afternoon to see how I am."

Joan's quick return of credulous glance embarrassed the blooming Sheila and she added, "And to have a cocktail."

Joan picked up her bag and gloves. "Good, then you won't be left alone. I'll run along. I just came out for a breath of air."

"Don't go," Sheila said, but she didn't urge Joan to stay and Joan was glad. She didn't want her exit to be too marked.

"She got away but she hadn't timed it soon enough. She met Win entering the elevator."

"What a break! You're looking better but a trifle peaked, Joan. You need some air."

Because there were others in the lobby, Joan permitted herself to be guided out of the apartment house and into his car.

"I don't know why I'm here," she said and looked at her watch. "Sheila is expecting you and I'm in a hurry."

"Sheila will be all right and there may never be another opportunity like this for me. Tea?"

Joan hadn't the slightest intention of having tea with him. But she did. And he talked about his work and she talked about her job. They skirted the edges of dangerous topics and came back to sensible things.

They didn't talk about Beatrice but not talking about her was as important as discussing her freely.

"This has been great fun," he said when it was over. "Can we do it again, Joan?"

"I don't see how," she said, thinking. "This is the last time I will ever see him."

But she knew it wasn't and so she did.

She saw him again one afternoon when Sheila had some guests in. Win was one of them.

She saw him on one of the rare evenings when she and Julian dropped in at the theater to see how the play was going. He was in Sheila's dressing room. He asked her to go to an exhibit with him the next afternoon and she accepted. That sort of thing was all right in New York. In Blakelyville it would have constituted a scandal.

He said he had an invitation. Beatrice was away and he wanted to see it.

It wasn't wrong, she told herself. Win didn't love her. He really loved his wife and there was no reason in this modern world why she couldn't be friends with him. But deep inside of her she knew that that was rationalization, that she still loved him, that he was an impetuous boy who had followed the dictates of his heart, his heart which did not belong to her. And since it was that way, and since in no way was he unfaithful to his wife, she had a right to this small—terribly small—part of him.

If she had tried to analyze her feeling for Win, she would have found that it was changing but she didn't know how to analyze it. It was no longer painful for her to see him, to run into him at Sheila's apartment where the actors gathered, to see the people she liked until she tired of them.

It was only when she ran to orgies of reminiscences that she was unhappy.

In this new and temporary happiness her tenderness for Julian was strengthened. It made her unhappy to think that he had suffered for love and was to have nothing. She felt close to him and found the little ways that were possible to her to show her devotion to him.

Then one day, while she was waiting for the traffic lights to turn from red to green, she stood at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street. Something made her turn her head.

In the dimness of a taxi she saw Sheila True and Win. Sheila's face was turned upward toward Win's as he bent over her.

Then the lights changed and the taxi moved on. Joan did not.

CAN GAME BE STOPPED

AN INQUIRER states that his bid of 3-No Trumps as East was defeated a trick. He cannot see that game is possible against perfect defense. The opening lead is the 4 of hearts. Is it possible to go game against any defense open to opponents?

Bidding went: South, 1-Heart; West, 2-Clubs; East, 3-Spades, which South passed, as both sides were vulnerable; West, 1-Clubs; East, 1-No Trumps, which stood.

The 4 of hearts was covered with dummy's 5. North played the 10. Declarer's J won. Any expert should go game, by thinking carefully over the situation, provided South holds just 4 hearts after the opening lead, and provided that player holds one club. The club suit is blocked by declarer's 10-9. He must in some way rid his hand of one of his lower clubs.

Declarer cannot afford to give North a club trick, as then a heart lead through declarer will give South 4 heart tricks, ruining chances for game. Probably this is what happened to the inquirer. He does not tell in the letter.

The following method must be followed. Lead the Ace of clubs, capturing South's J. As the only hope, assume that North holds the unguarded Q. Lead the Q of hearts. That will remove North's last heart. If South goes crazy and refuses to win the trick, or if he wins the trick and refuses to garner his 4 heart tricks, declarer will win more than his game contract. Assume that South takes his 4 heart tricks. That is all that he will win. South cannot lead any suit except spades or diamonds, to which declarer holds two certain stops. As taking South's 4 heart tricks will afford declarer an opportunity for 3 discards, first he will discard one of his clubs, rendering dummy's suit established. Declarer's next discard may either be his lowest diamond, or, better still, his lowest spade. The diagram below shows the 7 cards left in each hand after South has taken his 4 defensive tricks.

No matter what South leads from his holdings shown above, declarer must win all 7 remaining tricks. These, with the single heart trick and single club trick already taken, assure him the 9 tricks total required for game.

TRAVELER'S CHEQUES are

Your Own Money

When you carry Traveler's Cheques in your roamings around the world, you don't carry money; instead, you have the power to create money—at the time you need it, in the amounts you need.

Ordinary money is anybody's money if it falls into other hands. Traveler's Cheques are personal money. They do not become money until you sign your name in the presence of the payer.

Be safe this summer. Don't take the chance of having a trip ruined by loss or theft. Buy Traveler's Cheques at this bank before you go.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

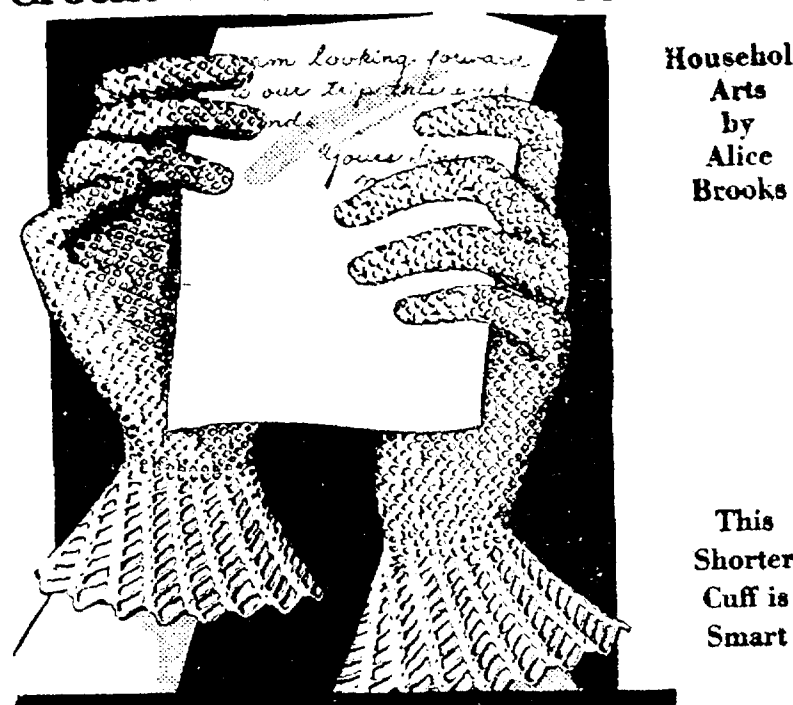

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

Cleveland Oils Win First Half Recreation Ball Championship From Eagles, 7 to 6

MENT ENDS OTIC CONTEST IN SOE GROUNDS

Long Hits, Poor Baserunning Feature End of Playoff
for Title

The Circleville Oils won the first half championship of the city softball league Wednesday evening by defeating the Fraternal Order of Eagles 7 to 6 in a hectic ball game.

The contest was featured by long hitting, by the number of runners the Eagles had picked off the bases and by the fact that only two Eagle runners were thrown out at first base, one of those being picked off after he overran the bag.

The Eagles hit Bill Hegele hard and often, but poor baserunning on their own part and neat handling of the ball by the Oils spelled the difference between defeat and victory. For instance in the fourth inning, the Eagles scored two triples, a walk and a single yet counted only one run. Butler, first man up, smacked a clean triple to right but tried to go the whole way and was an easy out at the plate. Garner walked then, and Hutchinson clubbed another triple the ball climbing the bank in left field. Garner scored, but Hutchinson was thrown out at the plate by Reger on an easy grounder. Fowler followed with a single, but Davis, safe on the fielders choice, was thrown out when he overran second base.

Score in Opener
The Eagles scored first in the opening inning, added one in the third, one in the fourth, two in the seventh and one in the ninth. The Oils tallied twice in the second, three times in the third with Bob Terhune's long home run to right with Reger on base the crowning blow; one more came over in the fifth and another in the sixth.

The game ended in an argument with Eagle manager, Nelson Garner, threatening to protest an umpire's ruling when Stevens was called out after overrunning third base with what would have been the tying run. The rules book explains very definitely that an umpire's judgment is final regardless of what the decision may be.

Hegele and Callahan, Eagle hurler, were touched up in nice shape with both teams smacking the ball to all corners of the lot. The only difference was, as mentioned before, ability on bases.

Whaley Is Star
The fielding of Everett Whaley, Oil second sacker was sensational. The game ends a playoff that has continued for two weeks. The final standing of the playoff is:

Team W L Pct.
Circleville Oils 3 1 .750
Eagles 2 2 .500
Cities Service Oils 1 3 .500

The second half of the league schedule will open next Monday with Secretary Joe Glitt to announce the schedule Friday.

Umpires, Wednesday evening were Cum Robinson at the plate and Tommy Tomlinson on the bases.

Grimm Lists Young O'Dea Among Best

CHICAGO, July 16 (UP)—Charley Grimm, two-fisted manager of the first-place Chicago Cubs, boasted loudly today he was the only boss in baseball who could lose the best catcher in his league and still have the best of the league in action.

When Charles Leo (Gabby) Street bumped his already injured right thumb during the last series, Ken O'Dea stepped in with such ease his work promised to be another in the long list of great catchers that included Johnny Kling, Jimmy Archer, Morán, Bill Killefer and Hart-

CARDINALS GET BIG EARNSHAW FROM DODGERS

NEW YORK, July 16 (UP)—Pitiful efforts of the St. Louis Cardinal management to bolster its faltering pitching staff left the baseball world wondering today just what had happened to the Cards' superior farm system, supposed to keep the club so well supplied with young talent.

Acquisition of big George Earnshaw from the Brooklyn Dodgers again revealed the desperation of Branch Rickey and Sam Breadon due to the injuries of the Dean brothers. Without Dix and Daff in the lineup, Cardinal pitching strength is nil.

Earnshaw follows temperamental Flint Rhem into the Red Bird fold after the disappointing failure of three youngsters, Heuser, Winford and Munns, to come up to expectations. Even 44-year old Jesse Haines has been forced to take his turn on the mound since the younger Dean injured his throwing arm.

Big George may go well with the fighting Cardinals. He had won four games for the Dodgers this year while losing nine. With the extra batting support he will surely get, he should do a lot better.

Heuser lost another for the Cardinals yesterday to the lowly Philadelphia Phillies 5 to 4. The loss dropped the Cards a full game behind the leading Chicago Cubs who shout out the Boston Bees, 2 to 0. Ken O'Dea, home run was the winning tally.

Splitting a double header with the New York Giants third place Pittsburgh Pirates stationary. Carl Hubbell walked the winning run home in the 10th in the Pirates 5 to 4 triumph in the curtain raiser, and the Giants slugged out a 14 to 4 victory in the nightcap.

Says Louis Doped

WHILE Joe Louis, his co-managers and a New York Ring official made denials, Sheridan A. Bruseaux, a private detective in Chicago, maintained that Louis, the Detroit heavyweight, "had a shot in the left arm" 20 minutes before he fought Max Schmeling of Germany. Bruseaux, a dapper Negro insisted he had affidavits and witnesses to prove he obtained the information of a hypodermic injection from Mrs. Eulalia Barrow Gaines, a sister of Joe. In Detroit, Mrs. Gaines said, "I never made any such statement."

SAINTS, KASEYS CLIMB LADDER

Both Teams Returning to Top; Freitas is Victor

BY UNITED PRESS
St. Paul and Kansas City, who slipped from top places in the American association earlier under the battering of eastern teams, today walked back up the ladder. The Saints, increasing a winning streak to seven games with a 8 to 4 victory over the Toledo Mud Hens, lengthened their association lead over Milwaukee to two full games. Boone and Cohen, Toledo ace hurlers, were hammered for 15 hits by the Saints. Kansas City blanked the Indianapolis Indians twice, 6 to 0 and 4 to 0, going into third place by a single percentage point. Page allowed only four hits in winning the first game yesterday, and Smith gave up only three during the seven-inning final.

Columbus went to fourth place with a 3 to 1 thumping over the Milwaukee Brewers. It was Freitas' 4-hit pitching that collared the victory. Braxton managed to hold the Red Birds to 6 safeties but his teammates' errors tossed the game.

Pfleger held a home run hitting game that ended with the Louisville Colonels bowing to the Minneapolis Millers 6 to 9. Pfleger pulled in a total of four runs with his clouts. The Millers pitcher Grabowski hit another and the visitors lammed out two. The Millers won the game with a drive in the final innings that brought seven runs.

REDS CONTINUE MIGHTY IN NOCTURNAL CONTESTS

CINCINNATI, July 16 (UP)—The Cincinnati Reds continued to lead the National league's "night circuit" when they won their fourth start in five nocturnal contests from the Brooklyn Dodgers by a 5 to 3 count here last night. The Reds jumped into a long lead at the outset of the contest when they capitalized on the wildness of young Tom Baker and then Ray "Peaches" Davis, the latest acquisition to the Cincinnati hurling staff protected it.

The 23-year-old star, who leads the National league champions with an average of .368, is Chicago's candidate for the league batting crown. He is six feet tall and slim at 185 pounds. O'Dea bats left handed, throws right.

"I changed my stance at the plate as soon as the Cubs brought me up from Columbus and right away my batting began to pick up," O'Dea said. "That gave me a freer swing and seemed to just fit big league pitching."

Benefit Is Tonight

Joe Glitt, league secretary, is promoting a softball game for the benefit of Clydus Faunaugh, Pickaway Dairy outfielder, who broke a leg several weeks ago. The game will be played tonight between the Circleville Oils, first half champions and an all-star team comprised of the following: catchers, Gordon and Dumm; pitchers, Callahan, Purcell and Buskirk; infielders, Walter Jones Raymond Smith, Roby, Watts and M. Davis; outfielders, Butler, Eby, Jenkins and Smalley.

Managers to Meet

Immediately after the game President George E. Hammel wants a meeting of managers to discuss important questions.

Freitas' Work Neat

These Columbus Red Birds are becoming awfully tough, and they may yet reach the top of the heap in the association chase. Tony Freitas' work against the heavy hitting Brewers last night must have been pretty, since the Portuguese southpaw, when he is right, is nice to watch. The Cleveland Indians are showing life in the American league, being only half a game behind the Detroit Tigers at this writing.

Grover is Champion

Butch Grover, basketball coach at Ohio university, is the champion golfer of the Southeastern Ohio district. Grover was the best sharpshooter in the tournament held this week at Portsmouth, dethroning Max Devol of Marietta, former Ohio amateur titleist. The Portsmouth team of six men topped top team honors with a total score of 970; Marietta had 1,001; Athens, 1,006; Chillicothe, 1,029. Other teams entered were New Lexington, Cambridge, Jackson and Gallipolis. John Swanson of Athens is president of the association, and the janitor of this column would still like to see Circleville in the association next year.

Rudy Vallee to Bring Ingram in "De Lawd" to Radio Tonight

STAR TO PLAY; RATOFF, OTHERS TO APPEAR, ALSO

Tom Howard and George Shelton Take Part With Judy Starr

Rex Ingram as "De Lawd" will "stroll among his chillun" and be heard for the first time in this part on the air when Rudy Vallee brings the Negro actor who portrays the famous role in the motion picture version of "The Green Pastures", to the microphone of the Variety Hour, heard over a WEAF-NBC network at 7 p. m. (EST), tonight.

The appearance of Ingram in a scene from the play will coincide with the opening of the highly-praised film at New York's Radio City Music Hall.

The additional assembly of guest stars for the program includes Gregory Ratoff, brilliant Russian character actor; the comedians Tom Howard and George Shelton; Al Altman, movie talent scout for M-G-M; and the lovely songstress, Judy Starr.

Rudy, who is something of a star "discoverer" himself, will compare notes with Altman on the trials and tribulations of seeking out new talent. The movie man will tell what it takes to gain a permanent Hollywood address in an interview with Vallee.

Ratoff, who came to this country in 1922, was on the New York stage for 10 years and then entered motion pictures. He will be remembered for his memorable performances in "Grand Hotel," "Undercover Man," and "What Price Hollywood." His vehicle is to be selected.

Miss Starr, who is Rudy's latest singing discovery, will make her final appearance on this program before changing over to a radio broadcast of her own.

AMATEURS WIN JOBS

The doors to success have swung wide for four more erstwhile amateurs who appeared on the Major Bowes' Amateur Hour, heard each Sunday night at 7 p. m. (EST) over a WEAF-NBC network. These received invitations to make stage appearances before the program was over and are now on their way to professional fame and fortune.

Pretty Helen Elly, 19, who came from Baltimore to make her appearance, practically stopped the show with her tuneful impersonations of a long list of famous vocalists. She imitated the singing styles of Ruth Etting, Helen Morgan, Connie Boswell, Marlene Dietrich and Ginger Rogers, for whom people mistake her. Then she did Cab Galloway and Gene Austin. It was was enough! She was summoned to fly to Washington, D. C., immediately for vaudeville appearances.

Also from the South came three colored youngsters, all brothers, who strummed and danced their way into the hearts of the studio audience and into stage engagements beginning immediately at Pittsburgh and continuing to Detroit. They were newsboys from Roanoke, Va., who had saved their pennies to make the trip. They will not be at their regular corners for a while.

Next Sunday, July 19, Major Bowes will honor Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, in an international good-will broadcast.

Honeymoon Delayed by Rules

THE Olympic ship, Manhattan, carrying Uncle Sam's Olympic athletes, was to have been a honeymoon ship for Chester Phillips, Temple university member of the U. S. gymnastic team, and Marie Kibler, of Philadelphia, also a member of the team, but the Olympic committee ruled against their plan. STORE SALE GOOD

An all-time record for sales and attendance during the opening of the Good Will sale at all Cussins and Pearn stores was set the first week, it was revealed by Clare J. Penfield, president. "The extremely hot weather proved to be no deterrent to the thousands who visited our stores in answer to the most remarkable bargains we have ever offered in our 43-year-old organization," he pointed out.

PRESIDENT'S SCHOONER
MOVING UP EAST COAST

ABOARD SCHOONER LIBERTY WITH ROOSEVELT PARTY, fresh breezes and a clear sky. President Roosevelt today pointed his speedy schooner Sewanna toward Petit Manan island, a remote, rocky spot off the northern coast of Maine.

From Petit Manan he is expected to head for Nova Scotian waters in which he will cruise until it is time for him to turn to Campbell, N. B., where his summer cottage is located.

The Sewanna, with the tanned president at the wheel and his three sons as the crew, moved out toward Petit Manan under jib, foresail and mainsail.

Before ordering sail the president called Secretary Marvin McIntyre and went hurriedly through a batch of mail brought by special pouch from Washington, and radio dispatches from the destroyer Hopkins, which is accompanying the schooner. He dictated congratulations to his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, of Fort Worth, Tex., to whom a son was born Tuesday night.
